

As new results are received by Public Health, collection dates will be updated and the case counts for recent dates will rise, especially dates in the most recent 7 days. Dips in specimen collection dates fall on the weekends when many testing sites are closed.